

itv loves[♥] volunteering

One of the great things about working here at ITV is that we've partnered with an organisation called Benefacto to help our people connect to nearby volunteering opportunities.

Here at ITV, we love helping out good causes. It helps you to connect better with the people around you, inspire you to develop new creative ideas, and encourage you to grow your personal skills, from leadership, to communication, to teamwork. As part of the ITV team, you'll get the chance to give something back.

And the best bit is that if you join ITV and work with us on a permanent or fixed-term contract basis, you could take advantage of three days, or 22.5 separate hours, of paid volunteering leave a year.

Our commitment to volunteering goes further than our hub sites. You can still make the most of our paid volunteering leave where you're based. So, if you like the idea of working with an organisation that loves volunteering, we'd love to hear from you! Find more about working at ITV and apply at itvjobs.com

ITV loves hearing volunteering success stories

As you can imagine, our people get involved in a huge variety of volunteering projects every year – and we hear some amazing success stories. Take our Social Purpose Team, for example. They recently completed a team volunteering day at an elderly and dementia care home in North London, and here's what Clayton Da Costa, Corporate Responsibility Manager, had to say about the experience:

Finding the volunteering opportunity was really easy. Using the Benefacto site (benefacto.org), we simply clicked the 'Volunteering for a Group in London' option, then choose the issue we wanted to support and when we were free, and the Benefacto team made it happen. We didn't know what to expect from the day, but it was all so well organised. Ruben's House were expecting us and had planned a sports day for us to help run - something I never thought we'd be doing in a care home! All the residents and staff at the home were incredible. We all came away having learned so much from the people there. I couldn't recommend volunteering enough, and would go back to Ruben's House in a heartbeat.
